Invited Research Seminar

Transforming Lives Through Resilience, Leadership, and Health Equity

Wednesday, Feb. 18 | 12-1 p.m.

Mercy Hall, Crystal Room

Lunch included!

SPEAKER:

Stanley Andrisse, Ph.D.

Endocrinologist scientist

Assistant Professor, Howard University College of Medicine

Executive Director & Founder, From Prison Cells to Ph.D.

Dr. Andrisse's talk will include an overview of his personal journey from incarceration to academia, how second chances change lives, and how grit, perseverance, and mentorship helped him transform his life and career. He will also discuss his current research on the metabolic, cellular, and molecular mechanisms of insulin resistance, as well as the intersection of chronic disease, incarceration, and health disparities in marginalized communities.

*This event is supported in part by the Dan Adams
